ITALIANS NOW OCCUPY MORE AUSTRIAN TERRITORY THAN WAS OFFERED AS THE PRICE OF PEACE

The Air Fleet of The Italian Army Has Been Playing Havoc in Austrian Ranks and Spreads Terror Over Lands Heretofore Free From War—Artillery Fire Directed at Gorizia Indicates Italian Troops Have Been Moving Forward With Great Rapidity.

By Associated Press.

London, June 19.—The forces of Russia are at bay along the Grodek line in Galicia, to the west of Lemberg, where, with her vulnerable flank well protected by the Dniester, she will defend Lemberg, the capital of Galicia.

It is admitted in Petrograd that the Russians have retired beyond the line of lakes near Grodek, 16 miles west of Lemberg. A German correspondent, however, sent word that the Russians are fortifying heavily a line 10 miles west of Lemberg.

Petrograd has also claimed that the Austro-Germans have been hurled back into Austrian territory, between the Dniester river and the River Pruth.

Rome, June 19.—Newspapers here say the Italian armies have thus far occupied more than twice as much territory as was offered by Austria as the price of Italy's neutrality.

Italian official reports say the Austrian fortress of Malborgeth, 24 miles from Villach, is being demolished. It is also declared Italian batteries have shelled the railway station at Gorizia, which would indicate that they have considerably advanced.

SHOCKING CRIME OF RICH OHIO FARMER

Deranged Man Kills Wife and Daughter, Wounds Son and Suicides — Youngest Child Only One to Escape Mad Fury of Father.

By Associated Press.

Upper Sandusky, O., June 19.—Harvey O. Dysinger, aged 40, rich Hardin county farmer, today shot and fatally injured his wife, killed his daughter Esther aged 15, wounded his son Herbert, 16, and committed suicide at his home one mile north of Forest. No reason for his act is known.

The only member of the family to escape unscathed was the youngest child, Kenneth, 11, who was rescued by Herbert. The latter is not seriously hurt, but Mrs. Dysinger will die.

It was at 4:30 o'clock that Dysinger arose, ostensibly to do his chores. Instead, he seized a rifle, and slipping into the room where his wife lay asleep shot her through the head. Then he went upstairs to the room of his daughter, whom he shot through the head as she slept. Herbert, in an adjoining room was awakened by the shots, and was just climbing out of bed to investigate when Dysinger entered his room and fired at him. The bullet wounded him in the head.

Dysinger was also armed with a hatchet. Herbert, stunned and bleeding, grappled with his father and the two wrestled about the room.

Finally the boy disarmed the crazed man and grabbing the gun and hatchet ran downstairs, where he pulled his younger brother Kenneth from bed and hurried with him to the home of a neighbor to call for help.

While he was gone Dysinger obtained a revolver, and lying down on the bed beside his wife shot himself through the heart.

Berlin, June 19.—The German War Office announced today that the village of Embermenil, about 30 miles east of Nancy, has been captured by the Germans. The French had fortified the village.

After the French defenses had been destroyed the Germans retired to their former positions.

ADMIT THE SINKING OF SUBMARINE

By Associated Press.

Berlin, June 19.—The Overseas News Agency today says: "The German Admiralty confirms long standing rumors that the submarine U-29 was destroyed by a British tank steamer which, after flying the Swedish flag at the time, rammed the submarine after it had been ordered to stop."

"Commenting on this German newspapers say it is proof of the British abuse of neutral flags and that the illegal course followed by ships of commerce compelled the commanders on the German submarines to consider their own safety first and sink such ships without warning."

PEACE TALK DISPLEASING TO GERMANY

A professor in the University of Berlin discusses, in a newspaper, the impossibility of accepting the United States as an arbiter as long as the Americans deliver weapons to the opponents of Germany in the war.

WILHELM ON PEACE

Paris, June 19.—A newspaper here today prints extracts from what is said to be a letter written by Emperor William to a court official and published in Spain. It reads in part: "Our only object is a peace profitable for the German states. This peace may be concluded sooner than thought. If it gave, for the time being, only an incomplete result it would at least serve as a preparation for the future. It could be signed tomorrow if I wished."

MONSTER WAR DOG LAUNCHED

New York, June 19.—The new battleship Arizona was successfully launched at the Brooklyn navy yard today. The Arizona shares, with her sister ship, the Pennsylvania, the honor of being the world's largest battleships. The Arizona slipped into the water at 1:12 o'clock.

The Arizona went to the river with the wine and water of her christening trickling in riverlets down her bow. Miss Rose Ross, the sponsor, made a fair throw with the bottles as the big hull quivered and slid slowly forward.

THREATEN AMERICANS WITH HOT RECEPTION

Mexican Governor Declares He Will Oppose Landing of Yankee Marines to Rescue Americans from Indians—Sends 1,000 Troops to Head Off Rescuers—American Forces Due on Scene Sunday Morning—Carranza Cabinet in Tangle and Trouble is Brewing.

By Associated Press.

Nogales, Sonora, June 19.—Governor Jose Maytorena authorized the statement today that the entire forces under his command would be used, if necessary, to resist the landing of American marines on the west coast to protect foreign settlers of the Yaqui valley from Indians at war.

A detachment of 1,000 troops sent to the Yaqui valley yesterday was dispatched primarily to protect settlers and their crops from the Indians, but they had orders to resist any landing of American military forces.

According to advices Maytorena has received, the American warships under the command of Admiral Howard are expected to arrive at Tobari Bay late today. The Villa troops dispatched by the government will encounter burned railroad bridges and other obstacles north of Guaymas, but Maytorena advisers expect them to arrive at Tobari Bay, near Guaymas, in time to oppose any landing.

Esperanza, the threatened American colony, is 90 miles southeast of Guaymas.

YANKEES RUSH TO THE SCENE

San Diego, California, June 19.—The cruiser Colorado should arrive at Guaymas sometime tonight, according to last advices.

Admiral Howard is aboard with three companies of marines, four rapid fire field guns and two automatics and a ship's complement of 850 officers and men of whom 500 are available for shore duty.

CARRANZA AND HIS LEADERS DISAGREE

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 19.—Difference between General Carranza and General Obregon, his principal commander, dissensions in the Carranza cabinet and Carranza's removal of his headquarters to the isolated safety of the fortress San Jan De Uloa, in the harbor of Vera Cruz—all reported to Washington today, brought the Mexican situation into a new focus.

State Department dispatches say these developments threaten the solidarity of the Carranza movement.

Occupation of Mexico City by General Pablo Gonzales and Carranza troops has been postponed pending the cabinet reorganization.

Officials here have no complete indications as yet as to the meaning of the cabinet crisis, but overnight it was said a new situation has arisen which may have an important affect on the Mexican problem as a whole.

Washington, June 19.—Latest advices were that four members of the cabinet of eight had resigned and that Obregon had insisted in a telegram to Carranza that they be retained, and that a fifth member, the minister of public instruction, be dismissed.

A newspaper article by the latter, attacking some of his colleagues in the cabinet, led to the break. It is now reported that Carranza faces a possible break with Obregon and other commanders over the question of reorganization of the cabinet.

"The backbone of the navy is still the powerful dreadnaught."

New York, June 19.—Gay with flags, the huge hull of the super-dreadnaught Arizona, sister ship of the Pennsylvania and one of the two largest vessels of the United States navy, lay on the ways in the New York navy yards today, awaiting the signal for her launching at high tide this afternoon.

Both Champagne and water from the Roosevelt dam were to be used by the sponsor, Miss Elizabeth Ross, in the unusual double christening as a result of protests against the use of wine by the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Governor Hunt, of Arizona, Secretary Daniels, Admiral Fletcher, General Wood and other high officials attended.

KILLS AGED FATHER AND THE BRIDE

Jamestown, N. Y., June 19.—Fred W. Saaver, twenty-seven, murdered his aged father, H. A. Shaver; shot the latter's bride of ten days to death, killed Policeman George Kendall, twenty-four, and while dodging bullets from a dozen revolvers, turned a shotgun upon himself and blew his own head off. The tragedy occurred at the Shaver residence.

Hudson A. Shaver, wealthy retired merchant, sixty-seven, married Ruth Campbell, twenty-seven, of Jamestown, on June 8. Fred Shaver, who with his sister, Mrs. Pearl Carlson, are said to be Shaver's only heirs, opposed the marriage. Fred started drinking, the police say, on the afternoon of the wedding, and had been drunk ever since. He had told friends he would never countenance his father living with the young woman, and threatened he would "kill the old man and his bride."

Following the shooting young Shaver barricaded himself in his father's room. Across the street three policemen had taken up positions at windows. They fired repeatedly into the room and Shaver returned their fire. Policeman Bergdal hit him. Shaver came to the window while a crowd of 5,000 looked on, placed a shotgun at his head and, stretching forth his arms, pulled the trigger.

SECRETARY BRYAN'S SUCCESSOR.

Robert Lansing, counselor of the state department, took Mr. Bryan's place when the latter resigned.

BRYAN IS TO SPRING NEW PRINCIPLE

New York, June 19.—If Representative Frank Buchanan of Illinois is a good prophet, former Secretary of State Bryan will introduce into his address tonight at Carnegie hall a new and important peace principle.

Mr. Buchanan, who came here from Washington, said that he had seen Mr. Bryan Thursday and had gathered from his conversation that the tone of the former secretary's address will be considerably "stronger" than that of any of his recent statements.

"Will Mr. Bryan say anything further on his reasons for resigning?" he was asked.

"I can't say, positively, but I have that impression."

When questioned further on the new topic in Mr. Bryan's speech, the congressman said: "I can't remember his exact words, but I believe he said that he intended to introduce a new and very interesting issue or principle into the speech."

Mr. Buchanan expressed the opinion that the United States was not out of danger of becoming involved in a war with Germany. "I am not a peace at any price man by a long shot," he said, "but as there is no great principle of democracy at stake, I don't think we should go to war. After we tell the people about peace tonight I don't think they will be so eager to follow the leadership of the heads of big concerns which are making a profit out of the war by manufacturing munitions of war."

LANSING MAY SUCCEED BRYAN

Washington, June 19.—The impression that President Wilson intends to appoint Acting Secretary of State Lansing permanently to the first portfolio of the cabinet has been strengthened by expressions of official opinion heard here in the last few days.

PRESIDENT BIDS BRYAN FAREWELL

Washington, June 19.—President Wilson called on William J. Bryan and Mrs. Bryan at their home. The president was with his former secretary of state for about five minutes. He called to say goodbye to Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, who will leave for their summer home in Asheville, N. C., in a few days. Mr. Bryan issued a statement denying the report that he had been dissatisfied with the treatment he had received from the president while he was head of the state department. He said there had been no material difference on policy until the submarine controversy arose.

MIDDLE WEST STORM SWEEP

Kansas City, June 19.—A wind, hail and electrical storm swept Missouri and Kansas, fifteen lives being lost, a score of persons injured and property damaged to the extent of $250,000.

Dispatches state that the heavy fall of rain, ranging from two to five inches, turned many small creeks into turbulent streams and sent the rivers to which they are tributary on rapid upward spurts. All points in the Arkansas river valley and along the Missouri river from Kansas City to Jefferson City are in possession of government warning of impending floods.

The known dead are: Five members of the family of Joan Burges, a farmer, near Onaga; Mrs. Arthur Covey and child, Richmond; Mrs. Mary Bell, Richmond; Charles Morris and son Guy, Westmoreland; John Gunther, Westmoreland; Gene Nichols, near Wamego; Mrs. Altman, near Latour; Mrs. Gertrude Knau, eighty, Fort Scott; baby at Montrose.

The situation is most dangerous at Clay Center, where the Republican river is hurling a great mass of water against the dikes that protect the lower section of the city. Hundreds of men are at work building sandbag fortifications.

Sixty-five cars were blown from the Frisco railroad tracks in the yards at Fort Scott, Kan. One was a work train in which track laborers were living. Three were injured. The home of J. T. Wood was blown over intact, carrying the occupants with it. No one was hurt.

FINDLAY SUFFERS FROM THE STORM

Findlay, O., June 19.—Damage estimated at $8,000 was caused by the storm which swept this part of the state. The storm path lay directly over the Findlay electric porcelain factory. The building was damaged to the extent of $5,000. Four employees were struck by bricks and timber when the roof and part of the walls caved in on them.

Berlin, June 19.—The prisoners taken by the German and the Austro-German armies up to June 14 totaled 1,610,000, according to the Bavarian Staats Zeitung. The newspaper says this total is divided as follows: Russians, 1,240,000; French, 255,000; English, 24,000; Belgian, 41,000; Serbian, 50,000.

FORD PERFECTS MOTOR TRACTOR

Detroit, Mich., June 19.—After more than thirty years of toil, Henry Ford announced that he had perfected a motor tractor that will give the high cost of living its hardest blow yet. "A tractor has been my ideal for many years," said Mr. Ford. "I have worked at it constantly. It is now ready and it means much."

The inventor claims the new farm implement will reduce the tilling of the soil at least a third of the present cost. It will keep young men on the farms, who will produce a greater amount of food, give work to 25,000 men and will mean a boom in lake shipping. Mr. Ford plans to build 1,000,000 tractors and 4,000,000 engines yearly.

After the War—What?

Just now the activities and the claims of men anxious for political preferment and seeking to obtain some political advantage, if not from present conditions, then by submitting plans for the future, have caused the people of this nation to ask themselves, more frequently and more emphatically, just what is going to happen after the close of the European war.

To begin with of course no one knows just when the war is going to end or upon what terms of settlement peace will finally be decided.

Our republican political oracles tell us that the return of cheap labor to the factories of Europe, following the close of the war, will result in exporting to this country a tremendous amount of manufactured articles which, owing to the present low tariff schedules, will result disastrously to our home manufacturers and, to avoid that menace the present tariff laws should be changed.

On the other hand the democratic political wiseacres point out that European labor will not be sufficient to supply the demand in Europe and that peace will open a big market for American goods.

The fact about the matter is that no one now knows what conditions will be after the close of the war and it is better to make no changes in existing laws until peace comes and conditions are definitely fixed. There is no doubt that practically all of our laws relating to foreign and domestic commerce will need changing after peace comes, to meet changed conditions. We had better wait, however, until we know what changes are necessary and make one effective and intelligent change, than to follow the prejudiced guess work of selfish politicians and make changes which may prove undesirable when conditions are fixed.

In the meantime our present laws seem to be, judging from business conditions, sufficient for present conditions.

Mother and Sons Graduate

At the State University commencement Wednesday three colleges granted three diplomas to three members of one family.

That is an occurrence decidedly out of the ordinary, but when it is known that these three members of one family were a mother and her two sons then the incident is one which compels more than passing attention and deserves consideration.

The mother was formerly a student at "State" and would have graduated, had she continued her course, in the class of 1891.

When her sons entered the university—one to take an art course and the other to qualify himself as a chemical engineer—the mother determined to take up her work where it was broken off years ago and qualify herself to teach.

All three followed their plans to completion and as a result they each received a diploma Wednesday.

The incident is a splendid example of just how close parents can, if they will, keep in touch with their children.

There is no influence which works more effectively for good in the growing child than a close relationship with parents. Especially is this true with regard to boys.

The mother above referred to has shown to just what an extent such a desire may be followed and how splendid are the results. The commencement was a happy occasion for both mother and sons and the future is certain to pay a huge dividend in happiness, at least, to the unusual three who graduated Wednesday.

America Stands For Those Principles Which All Humanity Must Desire

By President WOODROW WILSON

THE interesting and inspiring thing about America is that she asks nothing for herself except what she has a right to ask for humanity itself.

We want no nation's property; we wish to question no nation's honor; we wish to stand selfishly in the way of the development of no nation; we want nothing that we cannot get by our own legitimate enterprise and by the inspiration of our example, and, standing for these things, IT IS NOT PRETENSION ON OUR PART TO SAY THAT WE ARE PRIVILEGED TO STAND FOR WHAT EVERY NATION WOULD WISH TO STAND FOR AND SPEAK FOR THOSE THINGS WHICH ALL HUMANITY MUST DESIRE.

The strength of our polity is that we who for the time being administer the affairs of this nation do not originate her spirit; we attempt to embody it; we attempt to realize it in action; we are dominated by it; we do not dictate it. And so with every man in arms who serves the nation—he stands and waits to do the thing which the nation desires.

NO THREAT LIFTED AGAINST ANY MAN, AGAINST ANY NATION, AGAINST ANY INTEREST, BUT JUST A GREAT, SOLEMN EVIDENCE THAT THE FORCE OF AMERICA IS THE FORCE OF MORAL PRINCIPLE, THAT THERE IS NOT ANYTHING ELSE THAT SHE LOVES AND THAT THERE IS NOT ANYTHING ELSE FOR WHICH SHE WILL CONTEND.

Poetry For Today

OUR LIBERTY.

What is this liberty of which we boast?

Is it a thing which, where there's human ill,

May rise up, like some unsubstantial ghost,

To say, "You should," but ne'er to say "I will?"

Is it a thing wrong-doers may affront

And drive from duty with a frown or blow—

A poor, weak thing, distrustful of its right

To say, "Thus far, no farther shalt thou go."

Alas! that there are men who answer "Yes,"

And, coddling license as 'Twere liberty,

Hold that restraint from doing a wrong's no less

Than shackling men that they may ne'er be free.

Ah, no; the liberty that here has grown

Is not a simple signboard to be read;

It is a force of mind and heart and bone

To know and to compel the right, instead,

For almost seven score years has it held sway

And widened its dominions with the years.

Of slaves made kings who rule, and yet obey

The law inscribed in blood and bitter tears.

It stands on all the land that it has claimed,

Wise with the years, alert, exultant, strong,

With justice e'en for them by whom defamed—

A help to Right, a hindrance to the Wrong.

Some men expect Opportunity to go around to the back door and wipe his feet on the doormat before he knocks.

If a man held a 150 pound man on his knee for two hours he would be so lame that he couldn't walk for a week. But it is different when he is holding a 150 pound girl.

If the average married man knew that his wife knew what he knows about himself he would begin hunting up a lonely spot in the south sea islands, where a boat makes only one call a year.

The lad who has his sleeves rolled up to his shoulders and who has a pencil behind each ear isn't always the man who does the most work.

A man will often complain that he is leading the life of a dog. Well, if we had as many privileges as a dog and could be as informal when we were in public we wouldn't have any kick coming.

Some men never notice that they eat too much until they find that a table napkin isn't long enough for them to tie around their necks when they sit down to the table.

When a bachelor gets a look at a new baby he spends about thirty days trying to figure out what the Sam Hill the proud father is so proud about.

When a girl has been engaged for about four years and the fellow doesn't seem to be in any hurry she looks almost as hopeless as if she had been married for about four years.

A brute is a man who gets mad because one of the children uses his two best neckties for roller skate straps.

After a man gets old enough he is willing to admit that he never got a kicking that he didn't deserve.

Any man who is greedy enough to buy green goods is crooked enough to sell them to some one else if he gets a chance.

As a rule, if you leave the color scheme to a man he will select red.

Where is Your Grain?

Suppose by hard work you had got together a bushel of very fine, very rare, very costly grain. You wouldn't put it in an old stove—you wouldn't hide it in some out-of-the-way place. Rats, mice or birds might destroy it. You would keep that costly grain in a safe place so that you could plant it and get a bounteous harvest. Why not use the same care with your hard-earned dollars. Keep them at the Fayette County Bank. We watch your dollars for you all the time and you can get them at any time. We are a Bank of Personal Service.

TRAVERS WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Shot Hills, N. J., June 19.—Jerome D. Travers is the open golf champion of the United States. The most famous amateur that America has yet produced won the open title on the links of the Baltusrol Golf club from a field that included the best professionals and amateurs in the country, and added the crowning honor to his great career as a golfer.

LEACH CROSS TAKES SEVERE WALLOPING

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 19.—Johnny Dundee handed a terrific wallop to Leach Cross before a crowd of 15,000 persons at Elberts Field. It was one of the best fights between lightweights seen for some time, and in spite of the fact that he had been on the receiving end most of the time Cross was strong at the end and had the advantage in the tenth round. That was the only one he could claim, but the second, third and fourth were about even.

WOMAN ATTACKED BY MAN IN HOME

Eaton, O., June 19.—While she was lying on a couch at her home at Euclid, Mrs. Jacob Laird, wife of a wealthy farmer, was attacked by an unidentified man, who threw iodine in her face. Her clothing was torn from her body. The assailant escaped.

Most Fearsome Thing Is a Fly

MICROSCOPIC examination has shown that millions of bacteria may sometimes be found on the body of a single fly. Often these are of more or less innocuous species of bacteria, but typhoid, tuberculosis, bubonic plague (this germ is, as Professor Nuttall has shown, often fatal to the fly itself), diphtheria, cholera and dysentery make it anything but a desirable house pet.

YOUTH OF SEVENTEEN CONFESSES TO BURGLARY

Ross County Lad Delivers to Police Money and Jewelry Stolen From His Grandmother in This City—Will Be Turned Over to the Juvenile Court.

Hugh Ceiling, 17, of Summit, Ross county, Saturday morning confessed to Chief of Police Moore that he burglarized the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Dowler, on Cherry street, Friday night, taking $21.55, two rings and a locket.

The boy led the police to the gas house property along the C. H. & D. railroad, where he had buried his "haul" about ten inches in the ground. It was carefully wrapped in paper and nothing missing. The young man will be turned over to the juvenile court.

Young Ceiling came here last Monday to visit his grandmother, with whom he has been staying. Friday afternoon he told her he would not be back during the evening, as he intended to spend the night with a friend.

About 6:30 o'clock Mrs. Dowler went on an errand to the home of a neighbor. While she was away, the boy says, he let himself into the house with a key he had taken during the day and escaped without being seen with his booty.

When Mrs. Dowler returned she was not long in finding that the money and jewelry had been taken. She called the police and told them that she suspected her grandson. He was not located during the night. According to his story he spent the night with a friend in Millwood.

Saturday morning young Ceiling returned to the home of his grandmother. She accused him of the theft and an altercation arose. As the boy was in the act of leaving the premises Chief Moore arrived and took him in charge.

Ceiling at first denied the theft but later admitted his guilt in full, also informing the police that he had been in trouble once before for stealing a pocketbook.

LIFE OF 103 YEARS ENDED

Death at noon Friday ended one of the longest lives in the history of this part of Ohio—that of Mrs. Susanna Counts, who answered the eternal summons at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nathan Gellespie, near Danville, Madison county.

The deceased was born in November, 1812, and had she lived until the coming November would have reached the age of 103 years. She was a daughter of John and Elizabeth Popejoy and was born on the Popejoy homestead near the Waterloo pike, three miles east of Bloomington. Early in life she was united in marriage to Peter Counts, to which union five children were born. Those surviving are N. B. Counts and Mrs. Nathan Gellespie. The father long since passed away.

Of brothers and sisters the deceased leaves two, Lewis Popejoy and Mrs. Effie Gamble. Two sisters, Martha Popejoy and Mrs. John Lininger, died only recently.

Funeral services will be held on Monday at the Gellespie residence at 10 o'clock and interment will be made in the cemetery in that neighborhood.

HEAVY RAIN, WIND AND ELECTRICAL STORM

The oppressive heat of Friday afternoon was broken by a heavy wind rain and electrical storm Friday evening, and south of this city quite a little damage resulted by reason of lightning and wind. A number of telephone lines were put out of commission by poles being struck by lightning and reduced to splinters, and the wind played havoc with some of the wheat.

The storm south of this city was much more severe than north of town. A heavy rain also swept over central Fayette late Friday night.

JUDGMENT ASKED ON PROMISSORY NOTE

Truman B. Mills and Thurman B. Gest are plaintiffs in an action filed in common pleas court in which Otto G. Kroll and Clara Kroll are made chief defendants, asking for judgment in the sum of $750 on a promissory note, and foreclosure of a mortgage on nine acres of land in Union township.

The note in question was executed

CHANGE OF AGENTS ON THE D. T. & I.

Mr. J. M. Lucas, for several years associated with the D. T. & I. railroad in this city, has gone to Jeffersonville to become agent of the road at that place, relieving Mr. J. H. Rowe, for some 20 years agent of the road at Jeffersonville.

Mr. Rowe goes to Bainbridge to take up the agency at that place. Mr. Lucas is familiar with all duties of the office, and has long been a valuable man to the road.

NORTH STREET THROWN OPEN

Early Saturday morning North street, from East to Paint street, was thrown open for traffic, after being closed for some three months while being paved.

The street is a delight to all who reside upon it and is being inspected by citizens generally who are wondering why the street was not paved years ago. The paving adds materially to the desirability of the street as a residence part of the city and the traveling public is pleased that no more will it be forced to pass through innumerable patches of mud and water when entering the city over that thoroughfare.

It will be some little time before the street will be opened north of the railroad, but some two squares more of the street will probably be opened next week.

All of the concrete base has been completed and some three squares remain to be paved, two squares of the paving having been laid from the corporation line southward.

WIDOW OF JOHN BANTER WEDDED

Mrs. Annie Bainter, of this city, and Frank Jackson, 28, of Ross county, procured a license to marry in Chillicothe Saturday.

Mrs. Bainter-Jackson will be a principal witness for the state in the prosecution.

SAFETY SIGNS ARE PLACED IN STREET

Signs on drilled steel plates, supported by iron posts, are being placed today at the downtown Court street intersections. The signs are arranged in three tiers. The top-most sign bears the word "safety." The two below this point in opposite directions and contain the message "keep to the right." The signs are lettered on both sides and are expected to be of great value in the regulation of vehicle traffic at these points.

ONLY ONE BID FOR STREET LIGHTING

Bids for lighting the various streets of the city according to specifications decided upon by the city council sometime ago, were opened at noon Saturday, and the Washington Gas & Electric Company was the only one submitting bids, and action will probably be taken upon the bids at the Monday night session of council, when the bids will be either accepted or rejected.
Bids on both five and ten year contracts were submitted.

NEWSPAPER ERRORS.

They Appear Glaring Because of the Publicity They Face.

The capacity of some people for detecting errors in the newspapers is marvelous. Also it is singular how many unexpected meanings the people can find.

If the reporter writes that a man wore a coat of such and such a character some one may call up and ask if the coat was all the man had on? To satisfy these literalists you must enumerate item by item the other articles of attire or they will accuse you of making the victim appear half naked.

The reader who digests his paper on the quiet in his home feels that he has shown great brilliancy if he detects an error in grammar or capitalization. It is one thing to find mistakes at your leisure in another man's work, quite another to turn out a high degree of accuracy and precision in the haste of newspaper composition.

The banker makes blunders in his figures, the lawyer draws up incorrect papers, and the business man submits erroneous bills. Such blunders are known only to the few persons whom they concern. The newspaper is like the actor on the stage, whose slightest slip is manifest to all and seems ridiculous.—Iowa City Republican.

Some persons marry on railroad trains. And some atop a skyscraper peak. But most foolish and brave are those Who marry on seven dollars a week.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Gage, of Circle avenue, delightfully celebrated their thirteenth wedding anniversary with a handsome six o'clock dinner, Friday night. Covers were laid for twelve and the table was beautifully embellished with crimson ramblers. Seated with the family were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Messmore, Mr. and Mrs. D. Maddox, Miss Emma Smith and Mr. Henry Smith.

Complimenting their guests the Misses Lucile and Katharine Henderson, Mildred Price, Demaris McMillan and Katharine Fisher, the girls of the Sour Pickle Club gave a picnic supper in the big hay-mow of the Fitzgerald barn, Friday evening. Eleven couples spent one of the hottest evenings on record. After the supper they adjourned to the house, where rugs were thrown back and dancing rounded out the evening's good time. Today the club girls and their guests are on an all day picnic at Rock Mills.

Beautiful in all its appointments was the reception held on Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, by Mrs. Albert Keim of South Mulberry street, in honor of her guest, Mrs. Abbe Moorman, of Washington C. H. The house was enfeite for the occasion, a profusion of garden flowers being used in the artistic decoration of mantles, chandeliers and window tracery.

In the parlor, where Mrs. Keim received were used gorgeous masses of crimson rambler. In the library, where punch was served, the color scheme was wrought out with white hydrangeas and ascension lilies, while the dining room surpassed all with its graceful wreathing of pink rambler roses, the Dorothy Perkins. The rail of the hall stairway was wreathed in asparagus fern and hydrangeas.

DEEP BREATHING.

It Freshens Up the Whole System and Kills That Tired Feeling. Deep breathing does more than benefit the lungs. Physiologists tell us that the great advantage is that it gives the liver a healthy squeeze. All organs in the abdominal cavity as well as the liver are apt to get overcharged with blood from careless habits of sitting. A relaxed sitting position causes the abdominal muscles to relax so that blood runs into this part of the body like water and it accumulates like a stagnant pool.

The blood needed in the brain is down in the liver. The condition produced led the ancients to refer to a man with the blues as a hypochondriac, which means, literally, down under the ribs. Today we speak of the condition as being down in the mouth because the lines of the face are pulled down. Melancholy is due to a congested condition of the liver and other organs depriving the brain of blood necessary to keep up the normal balance of activity. When one is tired or feels the dejected feeling coming on, relief can be obtained by lying on the floor with a pillow under the middle of the back and taking a few long, deep breaths.

If the arms are thrown over the head and a dozen deep breaths are taken, a new spirit will come into the brain. Sometimes this is done automatically, as when we throw up the arms and straighten up after a crouched position at a desk.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Curious Effects of Tea and Coffee.

A condition resembling true color blindness sometimes follows the excessive use of coffee. It is probable that tea also will produce this condition, since both contain the same active principle, although cases of tea color blindness are comparatively rare. It has been observed, however, that both tea and coffee may affect the eyesight and even cause actual blindness. Such blindness is not usually complete, or permanent, and if the use of the harmful beverage is discontinued, normal sight will gradually return.—Exchange.

BIPLANE FALLS;
TWO ARE KILLED

Boston, June 19.—A biplane in which three men were riding fell a distance of about 125 feet, near the aviation field in Squantum, and two of the occupants were killed. Harry M. Jones of Providence, an aviator of several years' experience, was injured, but probably will recover. Those killed were William Ely Jr., nineteen, of Providence, a freshman at Brown university, and George H. Herzy, Jr., twenty, of Squantum, who was studying aviation with Jones.

Jones took the young men out for a ride over the bay and the accident happened just as they were descending in circles to glide to the landing spot on the field. Those who witnessed the fall say that when Jones was making a turn the engine suddenly stopped and appeared to backfire. Almost instantly the left wing crumpled and the machine fell sideways on the top of a knoll.

TEUTONS
FORWARD

London, June 19.—Both the German official statement and the French and British communications indicate that the fighting progressing in the Arras sector and at the northern and southern parts of the short British front is as desperate as any the western theater of war has developed.

The area of hostilities is tiny as compared with the sweep of the Gallician front, where the Austro-Germans are still driving forward, but the last few days have brought much hand-to-hand fighting, the British and French striving to hold the trenches gained and the Germans as promptly initiating a counter attack.

Each side dwells on the losses of the other and each emphasizes its gains, all of which have been costly although comparatively small as measured in distance. It is too early to say whether this means a serious French-British attempt to break through, but it is patent they are on the offensive.

On the east, the Austro-German forces are not only nearer Lemberg, Galicia, but claim to have driven the Russians farther across the frontier of Poland in the vicinity of Tarnograd, as well as penetrating farther into Bessarabia. The battle for Lemberg is now raging along the fortified Grodek line, where, it is predicted, the Russians will give a final stubborn battle to save the capital.

The town of Tarnograd, just inside Russian territory to the north of Sieniawa, and the heights of Krezow, to the northwest of Tarnograd, are occupied by the troops of the Teutonic allies, while to the southeast, in that sector of Galicia lying between the lower San and the Vistula, the Russian forces at several points have been compelled to retire.

Continued advances by the Italians at two points on the frontier are announced in the latest official report of the operations in the campaign against Austria-Hungary. On the eastern frontier of the Trentino, troops marching west from Cortina d'Ampezzo, whose objective is apparently Bolzano, have occupied the Sasso di Stria, a peak 8,125 feet high, and the Falzarego pass. Italian troops crossed the Isanzo at Plava, north of Goritz, sallied forth and occupied the heights to the east of the town, after a fierce engagement in which the losses on both sides were heavy.

STRAUS SAYS TIME NOT RIPE

New York, June 19.—Oscar Straus defined the exact nature and limitations of the project contemplating the re-settlement of Jews in Spain. "For some years past," said Mr. Straus, "there has been talk among men of more or less prominence in regard to the re-settlement of European Jews in Spain. The spirit of toleration in Spain has grown and developed within the past twenty years. It is not believed by those who have looked into the matter that it would be advisable as yet for the Jews to look upon Spain as a desirable place for colonization. While the civil government, without doubt, would regard such colonization with favor, the clericals, who have a dominating influence, while not distinctly opposed to the project, are not sympathetic."

BOARDER IS IN JAIL

Akron, O., June 19.—John Nelson, forty-one, is in jail charged with the murder of ten-months-old Bernice Knecht because the baby, fretful from the heat, persisted in crying so that he could not sleep. Nelson is charged with walking with the baby for hours trying to soothe it and when he failed, crushed its skull with his fist. Mrs. Bernice Knecht, mother of the child, who conducted the boarding house where Nelson lives, tried to kill him with a revolver when she discovered her dead baby in its cradle. Other boarders prevented her. The child's father committed suicide a year ago.

Mr. Bowser Laughs

And So Do Mrs. Bowser and the Cat.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The other night as Mr. Bowser settled down to his newspaper and cigar the cat leaped up on his lap, and Mrs. Bowser noticed that he didn't knock her head off at once. He is not exactly down on cats, and the Bowser cat had been an inmate of the family for many years. But Mr. Bowser is rather erratic. Sometimes he seems to love cats, and again his glare of malevolence sends them hustling for life.

Mrs. Bowser sat reading a book, and all was quiet and content within the house. Even the cook had broken her last dish in doing up the dinner dishes. The cricket on the hearth was getting ready to chirp when there came a sound like a human chuckle.

Which was it—and who was it? The sounds were repeated, and Mrs. Bowser looked up. Mr. Bowser was the guilty party. He chuckled again as he finally stroked the cat. Indeed, his chuckle became a cackle, and the cackle finally reached the ha! ha! stage.

"What on earth is the matter with you?" exclaimed Mrs. Bowser in tones of astonishment.

"Nothing—nothing 'tail'." "But there must be. You are looking red in the face and trying your hardest to laugh."

"I was thinking of—the cat—ha!" "What about the cat? She seems to be all right."

"Yes, she seems to be all right—ha! ha!"

Mrs. Bowser stood up in her astonishment and looked at him. Mr. Bowser ser returned her look and continued to stroke the cat. After half a minute he asked:

"KITTY, KITTY! COME HERE, OLD CAT!"

"You seem to think it funny that I love our cat. Haven't you always noticed that I just doted on her?"

"Not by a jugful, Mr. Bowser. You have almost kept her in terror of her life ever since she came to us."

"She knows better than that, doesn't she?" said Bowser as he lifted the cat up against his cheek. "I have always thought her the best cat in the world and sometimes I have hurried home to dinner more on her account than on any other. Nice cat. Good old cat. I wouldn't have anything happen to this cat for a hundred dollar bill—ha, ha, ha!"

Mrs. Bowser moved toward the telephone with the object of communicating with the family doctor about Mr. Bowser's mental condition, but he stopped her with the question:

"Mrs. Bowser, how old do you call our blessed old cat?"

"Why—why—I was thinking about it a day or two ago and I made out that she was about twelve years old," she replied.

a friend and protector. Mrs. Bowser, should I ever learn that during my absence at the office you had perpetrated an act of cruelty toward this dear old cat I should certainly make you answer for it—ha, ha, ha!"

At this point the cat leaped to the floor and took up her quarters under the lounge. If the cricket on the hearth intended to chirp he gave it up, and only the voice of a street peddler came faintly to break the silence. Mrs. Bowser was more than astonished, but there was something more to come.

All of a sudden Mr. Bowser half shrieked out with laughter and bent double in his chair and pounded his leg with his fist as he uttered his ha, ha, ha!"

"Excuse me, dear," he replied as he straightened up and wiped the tears from his eyes. "Of course it was foolish of me, but I got to thinking. Once in awhile one does think, you know."

"Even about cats," she sneered.

"Yes, about cats. I think I will take a little walk and drop in and see the druggist for a bit of a chat."

As Mrs. Bowser sat alone for the next half hour she wondered and wondered if anything serious was to follow Mr. Bowser's strange exhibition, but finally gave it up as one of those weak spots which now and again appear in men's characters.

Mr. Bowser returned with a faint smile around his mouth and a twinkle in his eyes, but he was subdued, and the rest of the evening passed off without alarm.

Next day Mrs. Bowser had shopping to do in the afternoon, but before starting out she said to the cook:

"Maggie, I want you to keep your eye on the cat while I am gone."

"Is she going to run away, mum?" "I don't think so, but she may be carried away."

"By the cat and dog wagon, mum?" "I can't say, but somehow I feel that something will happen to her unless she is watched. If Mr. Bowser comes home unexpectedly make an excuse to keep your eye on him."

"Why, mum, Mr. Bowser wouldn't take the cat away, would he?" "Well, he was most too affectionate to her last evening. At any rate, keep your eye on the cat and Mr. Bowser."

At 3 o'clock that afternoon two or three things happened at the Bowser mansion. The cook had kitchen utensils to scour and found that she was out of sand soap and obliged to go to the grocery for a supply. The Bowser cat awoke from a nap on the sitting room rug and passed out into the back yard and the sunshine to try a little promenade on the fence to get the kinks out of her legs.

The cook was at the grocery and inquiring for her soap and accepting the clerk's invitation to attend a picnic with him at the same time when Mr. Bowser drove up to the deserted house with a farmer in his wagon. It took him but a minute to rush through the house and find Mrs. Bowser and the cook absent. From a rear window he saw the "dear old cat" on the alley fence, and hustling back to the wagon he had the horses gallop around to the alley gate.

With an empty potato sack on his arm and a smile of hypocrisy on his lips he approached the innocent victim of his wiles with:

"Kitty, Kitty. Come here, old cat. I am going to give you a little vacation. That's right. Show your trust and confidence in one who has never betrayed you!"

With that he dropped the feline into the sack and made for the wagon, and two minutes later Mr. Bowser, the Bowser cat and the farmer and his wagon were out of the neighborhood.

The cook had intended to make a two minute job of buying the soap, but, of course, it was twenty minutes before she got back to the house. Her mind being on that picnic, it was half an hour more before she looked around for the cat. Grimalkin was gone. Nor could an hour's hunt reveal hide nor head of her.

When Mrs. Bowser reached home no scouring had been done. No preparations for dinner, but nothing but tears and sighs and reproaches had taken place.

"The cat—the cat is gone, mum!" was the doleful news communicated.

"But I told you to keep your eye on her."

"I had to go to the grocery for soap."

"Are you sure Mr. Bowser didn't come home?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"He might have come while I was at the store, mum."

Mrs. Bowser looked for the cat for the next half hour, and not finding or hearing of her she gave it up. Her mind was made up as to the fate of the cat, however, and the policy that she was to pursue was adopted.

Mr. Bowser came home at the usual hour, and he found Mrs. Bowser's attitude the same as usual. No excitement, no perturbation. He looked at her closely and made up his mind that she had not yet discovered his heinous offense.

Dinner passed off as usual. If there was suspicion abroad he did not feel that it rested on him. Once or twice during the meal he started to give a chuckle or a cackle, but at once suppressed it. It was only when he was seated again with a newspaper and cigar that he said in a careless way:

"It seems kinder lonesome without the cat around. I wonder where she is?"

"Oh, I guess she is around somewhere," replied Mrs. Bowser in equally careless tones.

"I should hate to have her lost at her age after having lived with us so long as she has."

"I am not worrying any."

Five minutes passed, and Bowser chuckled. Five more, and he laughed. Two or three more, and he said:

"Somehow I am afraid that we shall never see our dear old cat again."

"I think we shall," said Mrs. Bowser as she rose up and called to the cook through the tube:

"Maggie, is the cat down there?" "Yes, mum."

"Then bring her up. Mr. Bowser wants to see her."

And in another minute the cook came up lugging that "dear old cat," looking a little weary, but not much worse for wear. As she dropped the feline to the floor there was a purr of "home again," and Mr. Bowser raised his hands and exclaimed:

"It can't be! It can't be!" "But it is," laughed Mrs. Bowser. "She returned while we were eating dinner. It is a cat habit, you know."

Mr. Bowser looked from the cat to Mrs. Bowser and then back.

Mrs. Bowser looked from Mr. Bowser to the cat.

Then they both chuckled and smiled and grinned and burst out laughing, which was continued for five long minutes. Mr. Bowser put his arm around her and asked to be forgiven.

And the cat chuckled and smiled and laughed with them. It was the first time in years that Bowser had not threatened divorce, but he was seeing the funny side of things.

Made a Difference.

Little Willie became slightly indisposed, and when the family doctor was called he prescribed some medicine in powder form.

"Come, Willie," said the fond mother, preparing one of the powders as soon as the medicine arrived from the drug store, "you must take this right away so that you will be well."

"No, I don't want to take it," whined Willie, backing away from the dose. "I don't need no medicine."

"Why, Willie," pleaded mother, gently drawing the boy toward her, "you never heard me complain about a little powder, did you?"

"No, an' neither would I," was the startling rejoinder of Willie, "if I could just put it on my face, like you do, but I have to swallow it."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

With an empty potato sack on his arm and a smile of hypocrisy on his lips he approached the innocent victim of his wiles with:

NORTHERN AFRICA.

Where Once the Ancient Romans Ruled in Wealth and Splendor.

It is not generally realized that during the early centuries of our era the Roman proconsular province of Africa rivaled Italy itself in wealth and brilliancy and that in what are now Tunisia and Algeria there exist Roman ruins that vie in number, splendor, and state of preservation with those to be found anywhere else.

The fall of Carthage in 146 B. C. led the Romans to establish themselves in North Africa, at first in a modest settlement, the purpose of which was to see that the Phoenician city was not rebuilt. Ere long they themselves, however, reoccupied the site and built on it a city that became the third in the empire.

The gradual extension of their rule was forced on the somewhat unwilling Romans. To protect their settlement against the predatory Phoenicians, Libyans, and Berbers they found it necessary to push their conquests along the littoral to the west and the south, into the high plateaus between the Tell Atlas and the Sahara Atlas, and even well into the desert itself, till a good part of what are now Tripoli, Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco was ruled by them.

The country was much more extensively cultivated and thickly populated than at present, and for centuries was the principal granary of Rome. After lasting for nearly six centuries Roman rule in North Africa was brought to an end by the invasion of the Vandals from Spain and their capture of Carthage in 439 A. D.—Argonaut.

BASEBALL

What's This

Sad news is being spread about by the official distributor that the Athletics' twirling staff is in danger of annihilation. Manager Wreath of the Newark Buckeye League outfit is hot on the trail of Washington's chief and only tossers and it is stated that both Cotterill and Linson have been wired to report at Newark next week. Neither have accepted as yet. If they do, it certainly will look bad for Washington, but jinx or no jinx the local team has demonstrated that it is non-crimpable, and even this great loss could be bridged.

Cott and Cork are both worthy of big company—that's not to be doubted. But it would certainly be regretted by local fans if they were to leave now.

This Wilmington Game.

Everything considered, the dope points strongly to a good game tomorrow. Cotterill has been working out that long right wing diligently this week and has it in good tune for tomorrow's mixup. Then, too, Cott would like to hand one to this much vaunted Heironimus person and the indication is likely to help some.

Grandle has been carded for right field instead of Mobley. There is more wisdom, perhaps, than is apparent in this placing. It is history that Grandle is able to "find" Heironimus. Grandle is not such a slugger, either, but, as has often been found to be the case, he has shown peculiar talent for getting on to the twisters of the Wilmington's pitcher that have fooled the heavier hitters.

These and other features of the lineup would indicate a strong game. The game will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

Rain Again Wins.

Rain, for the forty-seventh time this season, interfered with the Friday game of the Sunday school league. The Christians and Presbyterians play Tuesday.

O. W. U. PRAISE OF GRADUATE

"On Winchell McKendree Craig of Washington C. H., the Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware conferred the degree of Bachelor of Arts, Wednesday, June 16.

"There were few men more prominent about college than 'Winch.' Nearly every branch of activity was participated in, including athletics, literary work, music and social life.

"He has always been on his class football team and was Captain in his Junior year. The Glee Club of which he has been leader during the past year and a member throughout his course, appeared here early in March. The Senior Class selected him for President, which made him a member of the student council. In literary work he has been the editor of the Ohio Wesleyan magazine and 'The Bauble' the fun sheet of the college.

Beta Theta Pi, the Owl and Skull, the Jesters, Pi Delta Epsilon, La Boheme, all college societies of importance, claim him as a member." — Ohio Wesleyan Press Bureau.

WATCH FOR THESE FAKE SOLICITORS

At the present time two Persians, John Joseph and George Bargas, are working adjoining counties soliciting funds for "war relief," and it is announced that the two men are fakes and should be given the cold shoulder wherever they appear. In Ross county it is alleged they forged the name of Mayor Cahill of Chillicothe to their subscription lists, and succeeded in getting away with a snug sum from the "easy marks."

The properly organized associations offer ample opportunity for all who have money to donate to the relief of the stricken people of the belligerent nations.

CLASS OF 1915 COMMENCEMENT

The Stinson Conservatory will hold its annual commencement on Wednesday evening, July 13th.

Five graduates will receive diplomas, Miss Helen McCoy, in the elocution course and Misses Dorothy Bush, Gertrude Miller, Martha McCoy and Mary Baughn, in the musical course.

The graduates will give the last Senior class recital at Conservatory Hall, next Tuesday, June the 22nd.

They are well prepared and the recital will be in the nature of a very pleasing entertainment.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY

The Y. M. C. A. summer school will open Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock. A final meeting of teachers was held Friday afternoon and matters pertaining to the various courses to be offered were arranged.

Quite a number of enrollments have been recorded and indications are that there will be a large attendance.

The fact that an unusually high percentage of high school students received passing grades this year is expected to make the registry a little lower than last.

SWIMMING EXHIBIT THURSDAY EVENING

Physical Director McClung of the Y. M. C. A. announces that a swimming exhibit will be given in the outdoor tank on the ice house premises next Thursday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock.

The program comprises chiefly of water polo, a new game to Washington, recently introduced into the activities of the Y. M. C. A. Boys and men will take part.

IS RECOVERING

Henry Hetzler, residing on the J. P. Lowe farm in southern Fayette, is recovering from the shock of the loss of sight of one eye, which came about in a somewhat unusual manner.

He was examining a horse's foot when the animal struggled and struck Mr. Hetzler in the eye with its foot, inflicting a cut and injuring the eye-ball so badly that he was brought to this city and the eye removed.

DOING NICELY

Foster Blue, of Amanda, nephew of Rev. John Hoppess and George Waters, of this county, who recently underwent an operation for an advanced case of appendicitis, is now recovering slowly at the Fayette Hospital, and his ultimate recovery is predicted in the near future.

Views of Others

FEELING BETTER, THANKY!

Since the sinking of the Lusitania Uncle Sam has been a very sick patient. Now the fever—war fever—consuming him, has been allayed by the skillful treatment of an able physician; the crisis is past unless a relapse be caused by some unforeseen complication.

We, the people, are the United States—the patient. Let's get the fever out of our blood, for once and all. It's a virulent disease, this intermittent war fever. It ravages the body, it makes inroads on the soul of a nation. Until we throw off its grip we cannot fully perform our normal functions. We cannot make our fertile fields fully return their rich harvest, we cannot seek our own in the marts of trade, nor cause the wheels of our great factories to sing their song of prosperity, for we are not physically, morally or mentally fit, to do so, in full measure, while the slightest trace of the insidious disease lingers.

Contentment and happiness surround us, here in blessed America even while the old world writhes in agony, such as history has never before recounted.

The mad, unwholly war has shed its baneful poison to all points of the globe, even to us. By a narrow margin we have escaped fatal contagion, thrown off the spell.

Our blood is cooling, our pulse is throbbing less violently, our mind is clearing, the malady is passing rapidly.

In our convalescence we must use care, think peace, abjure war, turn our efforts to setting all the machinery of commerce in full swing once more, as if there were not, or had never been, a world war.

Let's help our suffering, starving neighbors in Mexico to new life by giving of our bounteous abundance freely and without stint. By aiding them to solve their problems in the best way they may, so that once more—soon—all this continent may dwell in peace and happy security. It would be fine, wouldn't it?
—Columbus Citizen.

Decoy Periscopes.

Such things exist as decoy periscopes—short lengths of pipe held upright on a float and looking exactly like the real periscope. The submarine sets them adrift for you to find—sometimes scatters several of them.

When one is sighted you cannot stop to consider whether the little object dancing on the sea half a mile or so distant does or does not mean 250 pounds of high explosive coming straight at you. Maybe you will see an aeroplane maneuvering over it in a way that carries conviction that it does. You don't dare to take any chances, and so you train all the guns at it.

Then the real submarine sinks up on the other side of the ship and with the swift rush of its torpedo another sea tragedy is enacted.—London Tit-Bits.

Performing a Duty.

Mr. Choate told this one—not on himself: An American called at the office of the American ambassador in London, with his wife and baggage.

"When did you arrive?" was the first question.

"Just arrived," was the answer.

"Have you been to your hotel?" was another question put.

"No," came the prompt answer.

Then the ordinary question was put to him, as to every visitor of that kind and which we put at the end of an interview. "Well, what can I do for you?"

"You can do nothing for me," came the reply. "I merely came here to see whether my ambassador was in his place."—Denver Post.

A Prize Baby.

Little Minnie was having a birthday party, and some of the little guests were discussing the merits of the babies in their homes.

"My little sister is only five months old," remarked Annie, "and she has two teeth."

"My little sister," said Nellie, "is only six months old and she has three."

Minnie was silent for a moment, then she burst forth:

"My little sister hasn't got any teeth yet, but when she does have some they're going to be gold ones!"—New York Times.

FEAR FLOODS IN THE WEST

By Associated Press.
Kansas City, Mo., June 19.—Thunderstorms prevailed over Kansas and this section of Missouri today, causing fears of serious floods. All Kansas streams are at a danger stage and a heavy precipitation would be disastrous.

Delayed reports from the scenes of Thursday night's storms in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma continue to tell of property damage and narrow escapes from small tornadoes, but the death list was not increased and stood at 19.

Kansas City, Mo., June 19.—The Government Weather Bureau today issued a warning to residents of the east and west bottoms of Kansas City to move immediately from first to second floors of their dwellings, and to be prepared for a flood.

FRANK'S FATE TO BE KNOWN FIRST OF WEEK

By Associated Press.
Atlanta, Ga., June 19.—Governor Slaton today said he probably would not be prepared to announce his decision on Leo M. Frank's application for commutation of death sentence until Monday or Tuesday morning.

The governor said positively there would be no respite, but that Tuesday he would decide whether to commute the sentence or to allow it to interfere.

"The judgment of the court," said the governor, "should cause the prisoner to prepare for death. In the event my decision should be adverse he has had no ample time to make preparation."

Frank is under sentence to be hanged next Tuesday for the murder of Mary Phagan.

Bad Spellers.

Lord Wolseley noted that spelling had been the weak point of many great commanders. He was defending Marlborough against the charge of illiteracy, brought by Lord Chesterfield for one, who said he was "eminently illiterate, wrote bad English and spelled worse." Wolseley replied that a great many of Marlborough's distinguished contemporaries, such as Lord Chancellor Somers, spelled quite as badly and that Wellington and Napoleon also were among those who could never learn to do it properly.—London Telegraph.
